Sept. 11 banner to stop in Fargo

Forum staff reports

Michael Joseph wants to collect your thoughts.

The Fort Lauderdale, Fla., artist is traveling from state to state, collecting people's remembrances of the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks on a banner he hopes will hang in the Smithsonian Institution.

Area residents will have a chance to write on the "We the People" banner at the Fargo Fire Department's downtown station from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tuesday.

"The idea is to create a giant love letter/postcard from America," he said.

When completed, the banner will include a 4-foot by 16-foot section imprinted with a black-and-white photo he took of the World Trade Center in October 2000. Other 4-foot by 16-foot sections will have people's messages. The banner will be a total of 40 feet by 60 feet.

He's also collecting signatures of people who'd like to see the photo on a U.S. postage stamp.

Joseph began his journey with the banner in Fort Lauderdale July 4. He hopes it will end in New York City on the anniversary of the attacks.
